

MODERN SLAVERY SELF-ASSESSMENT QUESTIONNAIRE

Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth)

September 2021

We believe working together to identify and understand the risks of modern slavery practices in operations and supply chains is essential towards addressing world-wide modern slavery. It's the right thing to do!

Overview

In 2018, Australia enacted the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth) (Act). The Act established a national modern slavery reporting requirement (reporting requirement) which came into force on 1 January 2019. Under the Act, certain large entities (reporting entities) must report on the risks of modern slavery practices in their global operations and supply chains and actions to assess and address those risks, including their effectiveness. These reports are known as Modern Slavery Statements and must be published publicly and annually by the reporting entities (see <https://modernslaveryregister.gov.au/>.)

The reporting entities are Australian entities or foreign entities carrying on business in Australia with at least a consolidated revenue of $100 million. This assessment is done annually. For the 2020 reporting year, a number of ENGIE Australia & New Zealand (ENGIE ANZ) entities were reporting entities and submitted their first Modern Slavery Statements, jointly, in 2021 (available here).

What is ENGIE ANZ doing to comply with the Act?

ENGIE ANZ is doing a number of things in order to comply with the requirements of the Act, including to further better understand its supply chains. This is the main reason for this Questionnaire.

As a valued supplier and business partner to ENGIE ANZ what do we require you to do?

As a valued supplier and business partner to ENGIE ANZ we require you to complete the attached Questionnaire entitled "Understand the Risks of Modern Slavery in Supply Chains: Self-Assessment Questionnaire." This Questionnaire was developed by a range of industry participants (see list under question 15 under "Frequently Asked Questions") as a means of understanding and addressing modern slavery risks in operations and supply chains. The adoption of a common set of questions streamlines reporting (including for you if you have your own reporting obligations under the Act) and brings consistency in understanding outcomes.

What we will do with the results of the Questionnaire?

The results from the Questionnaire will provide us with a holistic picture of the risks of modern slavery practices in our supply chain. If we find that further due diligence is required or a remediation process needs to be put in place concerning you or your suppliers, ENGIE ANZ will work closely with you. By working collaboratively, we can both be assured that these risks have been identified and are being addressed.

Do you have any questions?

Understand the Risks of Modern Slavery in Supply Chains

Self-Assessment Questionnaire

Working together to identify and understand the risks of modern slavery, including in operations and supply chains, is a critical step toward addressing world-wide modern slavery and related practices.

Modern Slavery Laws

The introduction of the UK Modern Slavery Act in 2015, and more recently the Australian Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth) (Modern Slavery Laws), require businesses to do more to address risks of modern slavery. The Modern Slavery Laws require large organisations to lodge annual statements which explain what businesses are doing to assess and address risks of modern slavery in operations and supply chains. The Modern Slavery Laws are designed to (amongst other things) increase business awareness of modern slavery risks and improve transparency across global supply chains.

In addition, the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights outline that businesses have a responsibility to respect human rights, which includes acting to prevent, mitigate and where appropriate remedy modern slavery within operations and supply chains.

Purpose of the Self-Assessment Questionnaire

This self-assessment questionnaire (SAQ) is designed to:

- support the identification of modern slavery risks;
- foster collaborative efforts between suppliers and organisations to address these risks;
- improve transparency; and
- identify areas for further due diligence.

This SAQ was developed through extensive consultation between resources, mining and energy industry organisations (listed in question 15 under “Frequently Asked Questions”). Addressing modern slavery risks is a business-critical issue, as not only is it the right thing to do, it will also improve the integrity and quality of business operations and supply chains.

How to complete the SAQ

Please answer all questions. Completing this SAQ honestly and transparently will allow us to work together to address identified risk factors in the supply chain.

You are encouraged to share this completed SAQ with any organisation that requests similar due diligence information. We will not share your completed response to the SAQ without your prior written consent.

Frequently Asked Questions: Industry SAQ

1. What is Modern Slavery?

Modern slavery refers to situations where one person has taken away another person's freedom, so they can be exploited. Please refer to the Walk Free Foundation's short information guide for further information: <https://cdn.minderoo.com.au/content/uploads/2019/08/15105028/20190815-understanding-modern-slavery-p.pdf>

2. Why are you focusing on Modern Slavery?

There are an estimated 40 million victims of modern slavery globally. Civil society estimates that modern slavery affects every country, region, business and for many businesses – their supply chains. The introduction of the UK Modern Slavery Act (2015) and the Australian Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth) require that businesses do more to address risks of modern slavery within their own organisations and supply chains. These laws are intended to increase business awareness and improve transparency of modern slavery risks across domestic and international supply chains.

3. What is the SAQ?

SAQ means "Self-Assessment Questionnaire". The SAQ is designed to assist suppliers to identify types of modern slavery related risk, collaborate with customers to address these risks, improve transparency across shared supply chains and identify areas for further due diligence. The SAQ has been split into two sections with Part A focusing on supplier's details and Part B on the risk assessment. All questions must be completed.

4. Is the SAQ available in any other languages?

Yes, the SAQ has been translated into Chinese, Spanish and Portuguese. Please contact your customer procurement representative if you require a non-English version.

5. Why has the industry taken a collaborative approach to co-design a SAQ?

Recognising the industry has shared supply chains, we designed a common SAQ to promote efficiency and reduce the reporting burden for suppliers who will likely receive requests from their customers on modern slavery. By agreeing a common SAQ, it is anticipated this will reduce any duplication of efforts, minimise the cost of compliance and provide clarity to suppliers by using consistent terminology.

6. Why are all suppliers not being asked to complete the SAQ at the same time?

The implementation approach will be determined on a case by case basis with consideration of factors such as the size of the supplier base and supplier risk profile. The initial phased rollout may result in selected suppliers being requested to complete the questionnaire at different times.

7. How long will this SAQ take?

We expect for most suppliers, it will take 10 to 15 minutes to complete, as many questions require a simple “yes/no” response, and only selected questions require detailed descriptions. It may take longer for suppliers completing the SAQ for the first time.

8. Can I annex additional documents?

Yes. We expect you will need additional space to respond to certain questions, so please do annex supporting documents with your completed SAQ as required.

9. Does this collaborative approach contradict any competitions laws?

No. The SAQ has been designed in a collaborative manner between the participating companies in consideration of applicable domestic and international competition laws.

10. Will the industry share the completed SAQ amongst the participating companies?

A completed SAQ will not be shared amongst the participating companies without your prior written consent. However, you are encouraged to share the completed SAQ with any participating organisation that requests similar due diligence information.

11. Can any company use this SAQ?

Yes. This SAQ has been designed to be used and shared by any company across any industry.

We encourage any company to use this template SAQ to identify modern slavery risks within your own supply chain. As this is a newly issued SAQ and being piloted, there may be changes to the document when it is reviewed in mid-2020. If you have feedback or improvement suggestions, please communicate these to your procurement representative.

12. How often would I have to complete the SAQ?

Suppliers should regularly review the SAQ and make updates if there are changes in your business.

The SAQ’s review period will be at the discretion of the requesting customer. If you are aware of any changes to your answers, please promptly notify your procurement representative.

13. Can I fail the SAQ?

The SAQ is not designed to “pass or fail” suppliers. Rather, the purpose of the SAQ is to identify modern slavery risks within your and your supplier’s supply chains as well as to identify any remediation efforts to address these issues in a sustainable manner.

14. What will happen after I complete the SAQ?

Please speak to your procurement representative, who can provide you with details of next steps after you complete the SAQ. The next steps will vary from company to company.

15. Which companies designed this SAQ?

The following companies contributed to the development of this SAQ through a collaborative working group designed to address modern slavery risks in businesses and their supply chains:

- Anglo American
- CITIC Pacific Mining
- Fortescue Metals Group
- Gold Fields
- Inpex
- Iluka Resources
- South 32
- Synergy
- Western Power

If you have any other questions, please speak to your procurement representative.
